Mohair – When sheared, the hair of the Angora goat is called mohair. This pure white goat has naturally long, silky and curly hair. The natural fiber is the lightest of textile fibers and therefore very precious. It is durable, flame-retardant and preserves its brilliance over many years.

Alpaca – The Alpaca lives exclusively in mountain valleys of the Andes in altitudes of up to 4,000 meters and is exposed to extreme fluctuations in temperature. Its hair is one of the most superior and choicest natural raw textiles in the world. It is extremely fine and its fleece is very long, slightly waved and exceptionally soft. The animals are carefully shorn by hand only every second year.

or that special motor car. Whether the interior decoration or upholstery is completely covered with a fur or only individual accents in the form of cushions, wall coverings or similar are desired, the incomparable character of our hand-crafted furs creates an atmosphere of luxury and elegance.

Make nature dreams come true.

The secret of our exceptional materials is the weaving system. The valuable natural hair is vertically woven into a basic cotton weave of warp and weft. A three-dimensional fabric is created in such a way that it reflects the character of a genuine fur. Fine natural hair woven furs are a gift of nature and not available in unlimited quantities. Every individual fur is a lovingly produced unique object. Our furs, manufactured in handcrafted workmanship, permit us to respond totally to the desires of the customer with respect to color, thickness and size. Our genuine hair furs are not only beautiful but also robust and extremely long-lived.
